Egyptian Temples

Excavations Reveal Series of Ancient Structures at Depth of Twenty Feet.

Flinders Petrie, an Egyptologist, has given an account of the season's excavations at Abydos.

The clearance of the old temple site, comprising several acres, revealed in a depth of about twenty feet, ten successive temples ranging in age from about 5,000 to 600 B. C., enabling the changes from age to age through the whole Egyptian history to be seen at one spot.

The separation of the three buildings was an affair of anatomy rather than of space. The mud and brick walls were so mingled with the soil that incessant cutting with a sharp knife was the only way to distinguish the brick work. Often only a single course of bricks or a thin foundation of sand was all that told of the great buildings which had existed for centuries.

The main result as regards religion is that Osiris wasn't the original god of Abydos. The most striking change was seen about the fourth dynasty, when the temple was abolished and only a great hearth of burnt offerings is found full of votive clay substitutes for sacrifices. This exactly agrees with the account of Herodotus that Cheops had closed the temple and had forbidden sacrifices. This materializing of history was made a reality by the finding of an ivory statuette of Cheops. It is one of the finest work showing for the first time the face and character of the great builder and organizer who made the Egyptian government and civilization what they were for thousands of years.

There is part of a large globular vase of green glaze with Menes' name inscribed in purple. This polychrome glazing is taken back a thousand years before it was previously known to exist. There are also several pieces of this age in the highest art of delicate wood carving, especially a figure of the aged king, which for subtlety of character stands in the first rank. Such work is comparable to the finest work of Greece or Italy.

The great fort long known as Shunet ez Zebiba is now connected with the remains. Another fort has been discovered between Shunet and the Coptic Del, and there buildings prove to have been the fortified residence of the kings of the second dynasty. There are some large decrees of the fifth and sixth dynasties and also the oldest example of iron yet known, which is of the sixth dynasty.

EYE LOST.
Stafford Crawford, of Pana, sustained an injury while watching a game of pool which will deprive him of the sight of one eye. The end of a cue in the hands of a careless player struck him in the eye.

Crawford was watching the progress of the game and was standing quite close to the table. The player struck the ball with his cue and, while watching the ball, raised the stick, inflicting the injury to Crawford.

GROWS TO HIS DEATH.
Alfred Brockmeyer, aged 17 years, living west of Carlinville, died of a disease of the heart caused by the abnormal growth of the lad within the last year. Up to one year ago the growth of the boy had been natural, but since that time he has increased in size in a remarkable manner. The doctors who attended him declare that his heart did not grow in proportion to the rest of the body and that from this cause it was overpowered and could not properly do its work, thereby becoming diseased.

Young Brockmeyer is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brockmeyer and is well known in this section.

MC GOOLE LOSES POSITION.
Decatur, July 10.—Edley H. McGoole has lost his position with the correspondence school with which he was connected, on account of trouble with the district superintendent, which is said to have arisen because McGoole went back to live with his wife after being acquitted of the murder of W. G. McNeir.

McGoole will leave Decatur and will try to secure employment with the same school in another district.

CALLS CANAL POLITICS.
Clarence E. Shively, president of the canal commission, in an interview says: "The whole scheme brought about by Mr. Burke, of Chicago, is purely of a political nature. He has enjoined the payment of money for canal operation and I do not believe the public appreciates the significance of his act."

"Public interests are involved. The commissioners will be obliged to discontinue the operation of the canal until the controversy is settled, as they have the funds with which to continue its operation."

"It is quite likely, too, that through navigation on the Illinois river above Coopers creek dam also will be shut down as the river is getting so low that boats will have to be locked through. We will keep the river open as long as possible, however."

NEW RULES AT CAMP LINCOLN

CHANGES IN CONDITIONS AND REGULATIONS.

The New Adjutant General of the State Tells of Advantages to be Derived From the Dick Law.

Springfield, July 10.—The service uniform, which will be worn for the first time at Camp Lincoln this summer, consists of olive drab material, with hat to match. The cap will be uniform throughout the service and similar to that worn by Lieutenant General Miles, which he adopted from the German army. The gauntlet gloves will be abandoned and short gloves will be used instead by officers of all ranks.

The dress uniform for enlisted men will be the same as that used in the regular army, with the difference that the state instead of the national coat-of-arms will be worn on the collar. Under the new system adopted by the regular army the points of chevrons will point upward instead of downward. The officers in the national guard will be designated by a device of braid worn on the sleeves. Five widths of braid will indicate the rank of colonel, four a lieutenant colonel, three a major, two a captain and one a first lieutenant.

The uniform of the adjutant general of the state militia will correspond with that of the brigadier general.

It is the evident intent of the Dick law to bring the state militia and regular army into closest possible relations. Since the approval of the Dick law copies of all general orders issued by Secretary of War Root, General Miles or Adjutant General Corbin have been received by regimental commanders of the Illinois national guard and by the inspector general.

It is expected officers from the regular army will inspect the national guardsmen at Camp Lincoln and that opportunity will be offered next fall for members of the national guard to attend a national encampment, which they may do under the Dick law at the request of Governor Yates without expense to themselves or to the state.

As rapidly as possible the old Springfield rifle will be replaced by the Krag-Jorgensen which, however, is now used by the first, fourth and sixth regiments.

Adjutant General Scott, who has just taken up his duties in that office, evidently looks forward to the next encampment with much interest and personal pride. He is a soldier of the old school and, although he frankly admits that he is not as yet fully informed as to the work which will come under his administration, he is confident that the adoption of the Dick law and concurrently the revision of the Illinois military code will have an amelioratory effect on the Illinois national guard.

"I think the Dick law is a good one," said Colonel Scott to day. "It inspires the militiaman with the idea that he is in fact as well as in theory a part of the national defense. The operation of the law in the various states will foster a more friendly feeling between the militiaman and the regulars and will have the effect of doing away with the tin-soldier idea of the national guard. With the same organization, armament and discipline that obtains in the regular army the state militiamen will be better equipped to cooperate with the regulars in times of national distress."

"The Dick law will give dignity and strength to the national guard and will open a new field for young men who desire to enter the regular army."

Colonel Scott says he will assume the duties of his new office with as little friction as possible and that he expects to make no changes. Roy Reese, of Springfield, son of former Adjutant General Reese, will succeed Col. Theodore Ewert as assistant adjutant general. Colonel Ewert has been made bookkeeper of the national guard and will have an office in the new arsenal building at Springfield.

"This is an important office," said Colonel Scott, "especially so under the new arrangements growing out of the Dick law."

The national guard under the new Illinois military code will consist of four regiments. Gen. Geo. M. Mountain, of Chicago, will have charge of the first. Gen. Horace Clarke, of St. Louis, will command the second and Gen. James B. Smith, of Clay City, the third. General Smith, who was appointed by Governor Yates to succeed J. Mack Tanner as written of the Chester correspondent, probably will be transferred from the third to the fourth of the regiments.

The fourth regiment will be commanded by Gen. John W. Johnston, of Chicago, who will be made brigadier general.

The first regiment will be commanded by Gen. John W. Johnston, of Chicago, who will be made brigadier general.

The first regiment will be commanded by Gen. John W. Johnston, of Chicago, who will be made brigadier general.

al corps and the hospital corps. General Smith for the present will have command of the third brigade, succeeding William C. Glavin, of Moline. Each regiment will serve eight days in camp this summer, the first of Chicago coming to Camp Lincoln to-morrow. The schedule of camp dates announced by Colonel Scott is as follows:

First regiment—July 11-12.
Second regiment—July 13-14.
Seventh regiment—July 15-Aug. 1.
Eighth regiment—Aug. 1-2.
Sixth regiment—Aug. 3-15.
Third regiment—Aug. 15-22.
Fourth regiment—Aug. 22-23.
Fifth regiment—Aug. 23-Sept. 5.
Cavalry, artillery and engineers' corps—Sept. 5-12.

The signal corps will go into camp with the second regiment. Governor Yates will call for the United States July 11 and is expected to arrive in Chicago July 20. He will be at Camp Lincoln while the second regiment is in camp.

Under the Dick law the president of the United States may fix the minimum number of enlisted men in each company, troop, battery, signal corps, engineers' corps and hospital corps, and therefore some changes may be made in the Illinois National Guard. An officer of the regular army, acting under orders from the war department, may inspect any branch of the state militia at any time and independently of the inspector general of the state.

The president also is authorized under the new law to call into service all or part of the state militia for a period of nine months without re-enlistment, but when called into service by the president the militia is to receive the same pay and allowances provided by the law for the regular army.

An officer of the organized militia on the recommendation of the governor may attend any military school of the United States on the same terms as officers of the regular army and he may receive a commutation of subsistence at the rate of $1 per day while in actual attendance on the course of instruction.

There seems to be some doubt as to whether under the Dick law the federal government is required to furnish ammunition to the militia. It is believed, however, that the government is required to furnish ammunition suitable to the new arms, round for round, without charging the same to the allotment out of the annual appropriation made by the United States under section 1,661 of the revised statutes.

Colonel Scott is one of the most unassuming of citizens. He is a well-to-do business man and conducts a general dry goods store in Fairfield. He was on Governor Filer's staff, but has not had much to do with militia affairs of late years. However, he has a long civil war record and was breveted major by President Lincoln. He has been active in Wayne county and southern Illinois politics and was a commissioner of the Chester penitentiary under Governor Tanner, a position which he resigned when Richard Yates was installed as governor.

Colonel Scott also served as postmaster of Fairfield under the administration of President Garfield.

In addition to the usual duties of adjutant general Colonel Scott will have charge of the arsenal at Springfield. Colonel Scott says he does not intend to remove his family to Springfield or to change his business arrangements at Fairfield. "Of course my office will be at Springfield," said he, "and I shall spend considerable time there, but my home will remain at Fairfield."

No intimation has been received by Colonel Scott as to the probability of the state militiamen going into a national encampment, but under the Dick law this may be done on request of Governor Yates. It is suggested, however, that some of the Illinois companies may drill with the regulars at Fort Riley or some other western point.

Under the Dick law the naval militia hereafter will be known as the naval reserve. The reserves will make a cruise this summer on the United States training ship Dorothea.

AN EXHAUSTIVE TELEGRAM.
When Senator Depew was president of the New York Central Railroad company he received a telegram which he preserved for a number of years and now and then showed to his friends. It was a telegram from the Washington Star. This telegram reached him one fine morning a short time before Senator Platt was elected to the United States senate for the second time. It was sent from one of the stations of the New York Central and read:

Please stop the noon express here to take on Mrs. Platt and ME TOO.
It was a very unusual thing for that train to stop at that particular station, but Mr. Depew at once gave an order to have it done.

This telegram was referred to in the presence of Senator Platt on one occasion.

"You see," said the senator, "I wanted that train to stop without the least question of doubt. I knew that the way to reach Depew's heart was with a joke, and so I sent that telegram."

The colonies, so called, of the world occupy two-fifths of the land surface of the globe and contain one-third of the world's population, or about 500,000,000 people. Of this colonial population of 500,000,000 only three small groups, numbering less than 15,000,000 population, or 3 per cent of the whole, are composed in any considerable degree of the people of the governing country or their descendants.

The commissioner of the general land office, at Washington, has withdrawn from entry forty-four and one-half townships in the Susabine (California) land district, and 990,000 acres of adjoining land in Oregon, the whole comprising the proposed Walker river forest reserve. The land will now be examined to determine the fitness for a forest reserve.

The public debt statement from the national treasury for June 30, shows a reduction of Uncle Sam's indebtedness for the month of June of $10,670,396, leaving the total of interest-bearing debt now $914,541,110. This total, however, does not include $893,658,869 in silver certificates and treasury notes, but these are offset by an equal amount of cash held in the treasury for their redemption.

No matter what you do, provided you do it better than some one else could do the same thing, there's a welcome awaiting you in the world. It was Emerson, we believe, who said: "If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mousetrap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door." Try to excel—it's a laudable ambition.

While we protect the manufacturers, trusts, banks, combines, professional, office holders, etc., we are making competitors, for we have given away over 6,000,000 acres of public lands to alien immigrants this year, and brought them over by tens of thousands to make competitors for our farmers; while we protect one-half of the people we have been making competitors for the other half—the farmers. Is this not an adequate reason for the shrinkage in farm lands?

Want to be a man, do you? Well, you may attain the age of 21 and a stature of five feet six and be a man. Age and size don't make a real man. Some people when grown are as worthless as when they were boys, in fact, a worthless boy is usually worthless when he grows up to a man's size. The real man grows up from a manly boy. The habits he forms in youth stay with him. Now is the time to make yourself what you hope to be in after life. It will be too late when you are grown. The gods are satisfied when a man does his best, but the neighbors may still find fault with him.

The United States is the youngest of the great nations of the world and her flag is older than that of any other. The flag of Spain dates back to 1785; the tricolor of France to 1794, and the union jack of England to 1801. The flags of Germany and Italy were established at the beginning of the present dynasties, while June 14, 1777, is the birthday of "Old Glory." The original design of the flag was thirteen bars, alternate red and white, and thirteen white stars on a blue field. On the admission of Vermont in 1791 and Kentucky in 1792, two stripes and two stars were added. When five more states were added, with prospects of many more, in 1810 the present form was adopted, the bars representing the original number of states and the stars the present number.

MR. DENEEN'S MACHINE.
Chicago Chronicle: "Where in does Deneen candidacy for governor differ from a machine-made candidacy?"

The self-styled reformers who are back of the Deneen movement profess to look upon a machine nomination as something very reprehensible for the reason that it is all prepared in advance and everything is made to lead up to that one end.

Mr. Deneen's candidacy is being urged in precisely this manner. It was agreed upon long ago. Men and money are in use freely to make it a success. There is nothing spontaneous about it. It is all cut and dried. The Deneen machine is attempting to make a candidate by the usual machine methods of forestalling action by the people through their ordinary agencies at the campaign time.

SOMETHING FOR LYNCHERS TO CONSIDER.

Galesburg. Republican Register. Supposing that one of these men who are so eager to lynch about some one who is accused of crime, should be accused of crime himself, would he be lynched?

not the first thing demand that the law be allowed to take its course. But how could he justify such a demand? Having incited lynching, how could he ask exemption for himself as a legal right? As the leader of a mob he has incited a lynching without regard to the prayers of the victim. He was a party to denying another his legal rights. Why, then, should his own request be needed? It might be well to think of this aspect of the case. It might be well for men to imagine themselves as in the place of the accused and being refused the constitutional right of trial. Still, with the increase of lynchings, with the unrestrained process of the mob multiplied, this thing is likely to happen. The men who engage in lynching may be pulling down the house over their own heads. They are multiplying the demands for illegal execution, the occasions for them. It is time to think of what will be the end of the mob rule.

The Serpent That Talked Like a Man

In John Ashton's "Curious Creatures of Zoology" there is a quotation from "a little Latin book printed at Vienna in the year 1551" which tells a most wonderful story. Ashton quotes as follows: "There was found in a mouse or ryeck of corn almost as many snakes, adders and other serpents as there was sheaves, so as no one sheaf could be removed but there presently appeared a heap of ugly and fierce serpents. The country men determined to set fire upon the barn and so attempted to do, but in vain, for the straw would take no fire, although they laboured with all their wits and pellege to burn them up."

"At last there appeared unto them at the top of the heap a huge great serpent, which lifted up his head and spake with a man's voice to the country men, saying: 'Cease to prosecute your device, for you shall not be able to accomplish our burning, for we were not bred by nature, neither came we here of our own accord, but were sent by God to take vengeance on the sinners of men.'"

Ashton leaves us in the dark as to what the "country" men did, but it is natural to suppose that they surrendered at once.

Pictures in Stone.

Shakespeare could "find tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, sermons in stones and good in every thing," but he fails to mention the possibility of finding a picture drawn by nature in a stone. In several of the ancient as well as modern scientific journals we read of lines and markings in certain stone formations, particularly agates, which bear striking resemblances to the outlines of men, animals, landscapes, etc.

One of these curiosities now preserved in the museum of the Vatican is a perfect likeness of a crowned king. Many of these representations are so lifelike that they have been mistaken for medallion portraits. We read accounts of several of these wonders in Albertus. One plainly shows a man in the attitude of running, another is a perfect figure of the good St. Jerome, but the most remarkable of all is an agate containing a representation of Apollo surrounded by the nine muses.

A Persian Story.

There is a story in Persian literature of a certain poet who came before a great man and praised him very gratefully. The rich man was very pleased and said: "Ready money I have not; nevertheless there is in my granaries very much corn. If you come tomorrow I will give you some." The poet went to his own house and on the morrow presented himself to his patron. The rich man asked him: "Why have you come?" He said: "Yesterday you promised to give me corn. For this reason I am here." The rich man said: "A most wonderful fool thou art. What I said to thee was a mere jest. I have said to you equally pleased you. Why, then, should I give you corn?" The poet was covered with shame and departed.

How to Make Cloth Waterproof.

Ordinary cloth may be made waterproof by the following treatment: Put half a pound of sugar of lead and half a pound of alum in a pail of soft water. Stir this at intervals until it becomes clear. Then pour it off into another pail, put the cloth or garment into it and let it stand an entire day, twenty-four hours. Then hang up to dry without wringing. Garments treated thus, it is said, can be worn in the wildest storm of wind and rain without the wearer getting even damp. The rain hangs in globules upon the cloth, and cloth that is waterproof is better and more healthy than rubber goods.

The Little Fly.

The little fly is an insect which encompasses itself in a white froth composed of the juices it has sucked out of the plant on which it is bred. It occasionally injures plants, carnations and peonies, if not checked in the early stages of its progress. It is very tender when young, but develops into a hard-shelled hopper. It can be pinched and rubbed off with the fingers, or a good remedy with something like a collection of quassia chips will drive the creature away.—Los Angeles Times.

Foolish Fear of the Opal.

Many people to this day have a superstitious dread of wearing opals, because they really believe in such a cause attached to this beautiful stone. Three centuries ago the opal was an exceedingly fashionable gem, and the Italian goldsmiths particularly favored its use for their most exquisite settings.

The opal was at the height of its popularity when the plague broke out in Venice. Some especially observant individuals discovered that when a plague-stricken sufferer was at the point of death the opal, if he wore one, would grow brighter, and after his death it would grow dull. The reason for this appears to have been that the burning fever warmed the stone and that after death the damp and chill of the body dulled it. But many deduced from this a belief that it was the opal that had brought death and misfortune, and with the spread of this superstition the opal declined in popular favor.

Many persons would on no account whatever even accept one as a gift, much less wear what they foolishly deem the unlucky opal.—New York Press.

Courage of Wild Dogs.

The whole tribe of wild dogs, which in closely allied forms are to be found in the wildest jungles and woods of Asia, from the Himalayas to Ceylon and from China to the Taurus—unless the "golden wolves" of the Roman empire are now extinct in the forests of Asia Minor—show an individual and corporate courage which entitles them to a high place among the most daring of wild creatures. The "red dogs," to give them their most characteristic name, are neither large in size nor do they assemble in large packs. Those which have been from time to time measured and described seem to average some three feet in length from the nose to the root of the tail.

The pack seldom numbers more than nine or ten, yet there is sufficient evidence that they are willing and able to destroy any creature that inhabits the jungle, except the adult elephant and perhaps the rhinoceros, creatures whose great size and leathery hide make them almost invulnerable to such enemies as dogs.—London Spectator.

A Custom of the Balkans.

If or she who enters a house for the first time is supposed in the Balkan countries to bring it good or bad luck for the whole twelvemonth. This belief gives rise to a curious observance. The visitor before crossing the threshold picks up a stone (token of strength) or a green twig (emblem of health and fruitfulness) and lays it on the hearth. He also brings with him some grains of salt, which he casts into the flames, and then, squatting by the fire, wishes his hosts "a prosperous year, a plentiful crop and many blessings." Then as the grains of salt burst and crackle in the fire he utters the following quaint formula: "As I am sitting even so may sit the hen and warm the eggs. As this salt splits even so may split the eggs of the clucking hen and the chickens come forth."

Why Men Eat Too Much.

Eating is the greatest of all our standard amusements. A great number of people obviously eat a great deal more than they need, and it is entirely credible that a large proportion of the moderate eaters might thrive as well and look as handsome and work as hard and live as long on a very much restricted diet. But would the joy of life continue unimpaired for them? The native born might raise plenty of children if they could subsist for 11 cents a day, but would they think life was worth living on 11 cents worth of food a day? No, they wouldn't. That is one thing that ails them.—Harper's.

Chairs in the Dark Ages.

The chairs of the dark ages, modeled partly on those of the Romans, were in keeping with the comfortable dwellings in which the people of the north of Europe then passed their lives. The Saxon kings of England are represented as seated on thrones in the form of a box, the ends slightly raised, the bottom advanced to form a sort of foot-stool. There is always a cushion to add a degree of comfort, and sometimes a back in the form of a cross-piece or remotely resembling the backs of modern chairs.

Courage Beggets Courage.

One brave step makes the next one easier. True, the road seems more pilled up with obstacles as one goes along; but, then, one is made stronger and more capable with every step, so that relatively we have an easy road always before us. At least if not exactly easy it becomes more interesting—one feels less inclined to grumble.—Cosmopolitan.

Turned Out.

"Our colleges turn out some pretty good men nowadays," remarked the elderly gentleman.
"Yes," replied his son gloomily, "our college turned out the man who was sure to have won the hundred yard dash for us next year just because he didn't pass any of his examinations."—Syracuse Herald.

Valuable Special Knowledge.

The unique botanical knowledge of Sir George Birdwood, one of the most erudite men in the India service, once enabled him to perform almost unconsciously a neat bit of detective work.

He was in Bombay when he was asked to investigate the case of a young nobleman who in applying to the governor for an appointment represented that he was just out from England and that his letters of introduction had been lost on the voyage. A few days after Dr. Birdwood, as he then was, had undertaken the investigation he met the young nobleman at dinner at the governor's house. The table decorations of orchids suggested a conversational opening, and Dr. Birdwood's praise drew from the young nobleman standing opposite:

"You should see the Amherstia nobilis in its native woods, sir."

It was a fatal remark.

"You come from Rangoon, then?" instantly exclaimed Dr. Birdwood.

The pale face, the silence that could be felt, the request of the young man that he might leave the table, all prepared the governor and the company for the subsequent discovery that he had absconded from Rangoon with some public funds.

How Roses Came to Be Red.

More than with any other flower does the color of the rose have special significance. Red is love, white is silence, yellow speaks jealousy, says N. Hudson Moore in the Delineator. One of the legends connected with the rose tells that it became white through being bathed with the tears of mourners who sought the sweetest flower to lay in the hands of their dead. A prettier conceit declares that all roses were white until one day young Cupid, dancing among them, upset in his merry sport a glass of wine, which dyed the roses upon which it fell red, its own color. Another legend tells the story of a holy little maid of Bethlehem who was doomed to death. When the stakes were heaped around her the fire would not burn, but the brands which had been flaming turned to red roses and those which had not caught to white. From this time forth roses, red and white, were martyrs' flowers. The Turks say that red roses sprang from the blood of Mohammed.

Largest Hanging Bell.

What is perhaps the largest hanging bell in the world is to be seen in Mandalay. This is the Mingun bell, on the right bank of the Irrawaddy, almost opposite the city of Mandalay. This immense bell measures as follows: Height to crown, 12 feet; diameter at the lip, 10 feet 3 inches; thickness of metal, from 6 to 12 inches. It weighs about eighty tons and is suspended on three massive round beams of teak placed horizontally the one over the other, their ends resting on two pillars of enormous size, composed of masonry and large upright teak posts. This bell was cast at the end of the eighteenth century under the superintendence of the reigning king.

WANTS TO USE THE GRASS. Editor Journal: The undersigned feels that an injustice is being done to people at this season of the year in too strictly enforcing the laws applicable to keeping off of the grass in Central park. Many rely upon the park as a cooling place in which to spend the early evening hours and to be ordered off of the grass as though one is committing a nuisance seems unjust. Less rigid enforcement of such restrictions at this time of the year would seem to be sensible.

THE GAME LAW.

State Commissioner Lovejoy Defends the Workings of the New Statute.

A. J. Lovejoy, state game commissioner, in a letter to the Bloomingington Pantagraph, defends the newly enacted law. He says:

"I notice in your issue of April 23, 1903, an article written by a contributor signed 'Hopewell,' in which he finds much fault with what is conceded by all to be the best game law ever on the statute books of the state.

He speaks of believing in 'game protection in every respect,' and says: 'If this $1.10 per year were to be paid into the state treasury at Springfield and could be used for no other purpose but for the preservation of game, I would say amen to it,' and goes on to say, 'Such is not the case, as any thinking sportsman can clearly see.'"

I must say the gentleman procured his information from some unaccountable source. In the first place, every dollar paid for a resident or non-resident license goes direct from the county, city, town or village clerk to the state treasurer and the law so states in section 25, page 30, where it says: 'The license fees above provided for shall be paid by said clerk to the state treasurer within thirty days after its receipt and shall be placed to the credit of a fund known as the state game protection fund, and shall be disbursed by the state treasurer on warrants signed by the governor of the state and countersigned by the state game commissioner, when such warrants are accompanied by vouchers signed by the auditor of public accounts, showing the liabilities of the state incurred in the protection of game, wild fowl and birds.'"

This is enough to satisfy your contributor that that part of the law is all right.

Again, when he says that the law was gotten up "through the management of A. J. Lovejoy and the Illinois Sportsmen's club, the Duck Island club," and other clubs mentioned, he is entirely mistaken.

In the first place, the state game commissioner is not a sportsman and not a member of any sportsmen's association, but is a farmer, and as the state game commissioner is interested in the protection of game, wild fowl and birds, and after trying two years to enforce the old law with a corps of unpaid wardens and finding that wardens and deputies who were not paid would not take much interest in the work, and knowing that other states have a hunters' license law, and knowing that it worked not only to the satisfaction of those interested in game protection, but to the sportsmen as well, it was decided to try and pass such a law in Illinois, so the task of preparing the bill was taken up by the writer and with the aid of one of his wardens, who also is not a sportsman, and with one or two others, it was prepared and presented to the members of the forty-third general assembly, where no objection was found to the bill and it was passed, being voted for by every member of both houses with the exception of six.

There is no monopoly about the matter, there was there any attempt to legislate in the interests of any class, either sportsmen or others, low-grade or high-grade.

If your contributor is really interested in game protection, let him pay his $1.10 towards a fund to help prosecute every man who violates the law. So far as trespassing is concerned, on the land of another, that law has been on the statute books for many years, and whether one can hunt on the land of another or not remains for the owner of the land to say. Yours very truly,

A. J. LOVEJOY,
State Game Commissioner.

WILL HONOR WHITLOCK'S MEMORY

THE LATE JUDGE HERBERT G. WHITLOCK.

Pursuant to the call of Judge Owen P. Thompson, the members of the Morgan county bar met at the court house Friday morning at 9 o'clock. Judge Thompson was called to the chair and George L. Merrill was elected secretary. A committee consisting of Judge Cyrus Epler, Julian P. Lippincott and William A. Crawley was appointed to prepare suitable resolutions, which will be presented at a meeting to be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock, and from this meeting the members will proceed in a body to Centenary church, where the funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock. The committee were also instructed to arrange for a floral emblem.

A memorial service will be held at the next term of the circuit court, which will convene in November.

GOOD CORN WEATHER

Crop in Morgan County is in Favorable Condition.

A few timely rains and the corn crop of Morgan and surrounding counties this season will be something enormous. The ten days of hot weather needed for this staple crop is upon us and the meridian line of this hot spell has already passed, so that conditions are as favorable as could be expected. Many farmers have already threshed their wheat and reapers are running in the oats fields. Everything points to a prosperous season for the farmer and as prices are well advanced conditions are most favorable indeed.

The dry weather has enabled the farmers whose fields were overgrown with weeds to thoroughly get rid of them, and corn which was early planted has in a number of instances been laid by.

Livestock is bringing a good price and there is a ready market for everything that the farmer produces.

VIRGINIA MILLS.

The Virginia roller mills will again go into operation after being closed down for two years or more. J. F. Robinson and George Conover, Sr., who purchased the plant some months ago, this week sold out to Henry Stevens, of Schuyler county, for his farm of 200 acres, including the growing crop and stock on the farm. Mr. Stevens will go to Virginia as soon as possible and put things in readiness for business.

MISS KING GAVE PARTY.

Miss Abigail King was the hostess at a porch-party Friday afternoon given at her home on West State street in honor of the Misses Chandler, of St. Louis, and Miss Tiffany, of Springfield. The hours from 3 to 6 o'clock were very happily spent, so happily that the guests forgot all about the heat of the afternoon. Light refreshments were served.

CELEBRATED BIRTHDAY.

Mr. Edward Hull Alexander celebrated his first birthday Thursday evening by entertaining a limited company of his friends of about the same age. There were but six in the party, as several of the expected guests were compelled to send regrets. The occasion was one long to be remembered.

OMNIBUS.
Chicago, July 10.—Wheat—There was fair trade and uncurrent of strength early, sentiment later on being less bullish, but again rallied sharply the last hour of the day. Final figures showing gains of 1/4 to 1/2. Cables were disappointing, but crop reports were good and had. Strength on continued disappointing returns from winter wheat country and fear of bullish report on spring wheat. On advance commission house selling was conspicuous and prices yielded on increased pressure. Both northwest and southwest were sellers on the upturn.
Corn—Fairly active, rather unsettled, final figures showing September a shade lower, December and May off 1/4. Start was stronger, helped by wheat and fear of bullish government report. Commission houses and locals led in early bulge, but considerable long property, principally September, came out on the rise and prices settled back. May was favorable. Five boat loads were accepted on the coast.
Oats—Stronger, with fair professional trade. July broke 1/2, advanced 1/4 and closed 1/2 higher for the day. Distant futures advanced 1/4, closed 1/2 up. Strength of wheat and anticipation of bullish government crop report caused shorts to cover. These influences were factors.

HOT DAYS THESE.
The hot weather Friday was the common theme of conversation and it certainly was a scorching day for man and beast. Thermometer readings varied from 94 to 104 degrees, but everybody agreed that the heat was excessive. Business was quiet so far as merchants were concerned, as no one appeared at the stores unless the errand was an urgent one.

The season for sunstrokes is at hand. A leading physician in talking on this subject explained that there were two classes of cases under this head. They are exactly opposite nature, and require diametrically different treatments. In one kind of case there is a very low state of vitality; the pulse is feeble the heart and muscular action at a minimum, and the whole system almost at a standstill. Such a case needs immediate stimulation, and a rousing of the vital forces. The other kind is where the blood is surging through the veins at a tempestuous rate. The brain is on fire, the skin fevered and the system on the point of almost consuming itself from excess of heat. The treatment in these cases is something to assuage the heat to cool the temperature, and generally besalm the feverish frame. The experienced physician knows at a glance under which head a given case comes and applies the necessary treatment.

"This is a dry, hot moon," said a local philosopher yesterday, as he tried to account for the high temperature and the lack of rain. "Remember that I saw it in the western sky the first night. I said to my wife, 'this July will be a dry, hot month, and don't you forget it.'"

The old fellow was in the midst of a demonstration of the proposition that the moon is responsible for the heat and rymess and all the varying moods of the weather, when a voice from the outskirts was heard to say, "What are you talking about? Do you mean to say that the moon governs the temperature and atmosphere about Jacksonville alone. How do you account for four hard drenching rains at Bloomington since this moon was born? Up there they say this is a wet moon. How do you account for the now storms out in Colorado last week? Out there they say this moon is very frosty."

The old philosopher gradually moved away as he remarked that the corn needed rain and the crowd sadly and perspiringly smiled.

EXPRESS RATES RAISED.
Some radical changes in express rates are reported to have gone into effect all over the United States on the first of July. In making their changes on printed matter they make an advance of 3 cents for the majority of packages. The first pound now costs 10 cents where it was 5 cents before. Notices to this effect have been made public. This will effect business houses having a large order business. This will effect the sending out of catalogues. The heavy increase will fall on the general public. Under the old schedule a one-pound package could be sent to any point for 2 cents, whereas now it will cost 30 cents west of Denver City, Kans. This schedule is a compromise between the companies.

HAS AMPLE TRAINING

Robert Halstead Well Equipped for His New Work.

Robert Halsted, of this city, the newly appointed physical director at the State School for the Deaf, left early in the week for Chautauqua, N. Y., where he will pursue one of the weeks' course in the physical training department of the assembly. Special attention is given at the "home" chautauqua to this branch of the summer course offered and physical directors from all parts of the country make it a point to spend at least a part of the summer at this school.

Mr. Halsted is already well equipped for the position he is to occupy and with his additional training of this summer he will have a knowledge of the work that will be of especial advantage to the pupils he will have in gymnastic exercise and will materially assist him in the training for the outdoor sports. Mr. Halsted spent one year as assistant secretary at the local Y. M. C. A., and for the last two years has been in charge of the physical training department of the Y. M. C. A. at San Antonio, Texas. He was also assistant instructor at the Lake Geneva summer school last season. His work is characterized by enthusiasm and earnestness and he will doubtless succeed in arousing a strong athletic and gymnastic interest among the pupils at the Deaf and Dumb the coming year.

According to the Peoria Herald-Transcript, there is fear in Peoria of a shortage of caddies on account of the new child labor law. That paper says:

"With the new child labor law staring them in the face the devotees of the athletic game of golf, it is said, are in immediate fear of being obliged to do their own caddying. By the terms of the new law, if it is enforced, no child will be allowed to work after 6 o'clock at night and as the ardor of the sun renders day playing out of the question, special provision will require to be made if the golfers are to be accommodated."

"The matter is considered to be a grave one by enthusiastic followers of the popular recreation and divers and sundry evasions have been suggested from time to time; none of which seems, however, to meet perfectly the situation."

"Pointer dogs, it has been thought could be made to serve admirably so far as tracing the path of the ball is concerned, but there still remains the problem of transporting the arsenal of clubs."

"When the problem was put to a local enthusiast he sniffed the air. 'Any legislature who would construe caddying as work,' said he, 'has never become acquainted with the Peoria brand of caddy, that's certain.'"

TO HOLD REUNION.
Jesse Sawyer has issued invitations for the annual reunion of the seventy-seventh Illinois volunteer regiment which is to be held in Peoria on Sept. 2 and 3. This regiment is unusual in the fact that there are scarcely any of the officers living. There is but one captain and but one other officer survives. Out of 1,000 men who enlisted there are but slightly over 200 living. Half of these will attend the annual meeting in Peoria. Jesse Sawyer is president of the association.

BOAT CRUISE.
A boat cruise, under the command of Mr. J. H. Smith, for the purpose of visiting the various points of interest on the Mississippi river, will leave Jacksonville on Saturday morning for St. Louis. The boat is the "Mississippi" and will be commanded by Mr. J. H. Smith. The cruise will last for about two weeks and will visit St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and other points of interest on the river. The cost of the cruise is $100 per person, and will include board, lodging, and transportation.

PIONEER DEAD

A. C. Woods Passed From Earth Friday After Long and Useful Life—Other Deaths.

Mr. Abram C. Woods passed from earth at 12:30 o'clock Friday noon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. S. D. Osborne, on West College avenue. Mr. Woods had been ill for a year or more and for the past six months had been confined to his bed.

Mr. Woods was born in Franklin, Ky., March 5, 1822. When he was 5 years old his parents moved to Illinois, settling in what is now Franklin precinct, this county. There they found everything in a truly primitive state and they nobly bore their part in developing the country which all of the present age are enjoying. The winter of the "deep snow" was a memorable time and the hardships they endured were never forgotten by Mr. Woods, though he was but 8 years old at the time. He worked on the farm of his father and in various ways made himself useful until 1849, when he engaged in mercantile business in the town of Franklin, which had sprung up during his residence there. He remained at that business for sixteen years, when he came to Jacksonville, where he has since resided. He followed the dry goods business for a good many years, first as a member of the firm of Stevenson & Woods, whose store was on the south corner of East State street and the square, the room now occupied by the Rao Fruit company. He was connected for some time with the First National bank in various capacities and later with the firm of Phelps & Osborne, of this city, retiring some years since to enjoy the ease and comfort he had so well earned, and tender, loving hands ministered to his every want with constant care.

April 13, 1847, he was married to Miss Susan Dugger, of Carlinville, Ill., and their home life was always the ideal one. Each was devoted to the other and seldom were they separated. There were born to them five children: Ellen A., who died March 6, 1891; Edward, who died in infancy; Mrs. James W. Crabtree, Mrs. J. V. Read and Mrs. S. D. Osborne, all of whom survive him. His devoted wife passed away Aug. 6, 1894, and since that time he has made his home principally with his daughter, Mrs. S. D. Osborne, who has been faithful and affectionate in her care for him and the reward of the dutiful child will be hers and her worthy husband, while the other daughters have eagerly done for their father all that lay in their power. The deceased is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Leannah Holliday.

In 1833 Mr. Woods united with the M. E. church in which he remained until his death. He was honored with almost every office a layman could hold, being successively steward, trustee, Sunday school superintendent, etc.

Mr. Woods' life is his best epitaph. In all his dealings he was the soul of honor and integrity. He could never brook a mean act nor would he have anything to do with anything that was not strictly just and fair. In his home he was kind and affectionate, devoted to his loved ones and laboring constantly for their welfare and happiness, and they will all arise and call him blessed. In the church he was quiet and unostentatious; ready to do his duty uncomplainingly in whatever sphere he was placed and always for peace when possible, and consistent with the good of the body. In society he was most agreeable and pleasant; he was polite without being obtrusive and he always had a kind word and pleasant smile for all whom he met. No man was ever more entirely respected and his loss removes another of the few remaining noble men and women to whom this country owes so much for the work they did in preparing the state for its grand career.

The funeral will be held at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Osborne.

KEIFER.
Miss Leila Keifer, of Harriestown, died Friday at 12:10 o'clock at the Maplewood sanatorium. The deceased has been a patient at the hospital about two weeks. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Keifer, of Harriestown, and by her kindly ways and loveliness of character had endeared herself to a wide circle of friends who will be deeply saddened by the news of her death. The father and a sister of the deceased arrived in Peoria Friday afternoon and the remains were sent to Harriestown Friday evening.

M'PHAIL.
The funeral services of Roy McPhail, the little son of E. E. McPhail, of Brooklyn avenue, were held at the family residence at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in the presence of many sorrowing relatives and friends. The services were in charge of Rev. H. F. Thripp, who spoke words of comfort and consolation for the bereaved parents. The remains were sent to Brooklyn, N. Y., for interment.

FEUDISTS WOUNDED.

Shadowens and Harris Factions Clash as the Result of Old Family Differences.

Marion, Ill., July 10.—Deputy Sheriff A. C. Hents and Frank Throgmorton were called to Herrin on account of a riot in which guns, clubs and other weapons were used. On their arrival they found City Marshal McNeill prostrated with an ugly wound in the back, and John Shadowens with an ugly gash on each side of his neck, also with two bad wounds on top of his head. His brother-in-law, Frank Harris, had both arms badly shot. An old Englishman, who was a bystander, had an eye shot out and probably will die. One Harris, who made his escape, did most of the shooting. The trouble was the culmination of an old family feud of the Harris and Shadowens.

A CHILD MURDERED.
Bloomington, July 10.—The 2-year-old daughter of Andrew Jordan, a teamster, was stolen from her home here last night. To day the mangled body was found in Staut's pasture two miles northeast of this city. The babe had first been choked to death and then mutilated. No theory is advanced to account for the crime. Adjoining towns have been notified to look out for a man who is thought to have hired the rig in which the child was taken away.

GUTEAU'S FORMER WIFE.
Chicago, July 10.—Mrs. Anna B. Allen, at one time the wife of Charles J. Guitau, who murdered President Garfield, is the complainant in a suit for separate maintenance that has been filed in the circuit court against Enoch Allen, an employee of the McCormick Harvester company. They were married, according to Allen, in November, 1901. The latter declares in an affidavit that Mrs. Allen is the widow of Guitau. She denies this, but asserts that she was at one time his wife. Allen avers that the complainant concealed this fact from him until after their marriage. Mrs. Allen declares that she has not received proper support from her husband, who is able to make a good living for her, she avers. Allen charges that his wife has made his home a "hell on earth" and that she is more able to work than he is. In reply Mrs. Allen alleges that she is in poor health and weighs but 85 pounds. According to Allen his wife was divorced from a man named Dummire prior to their marriage.

FUNERAL NOTICES.
Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. E. P. Jones will be held at the residence, 1457 South Main street, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Interment will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Miss Hattie Vasconcellos, daughter of A. P. Vasconcellos, is rapidly recovering from her recent illness.

The funeral of the late Judge Herbert G. Whitlock will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Centenary church. The services will be in charge of the pastor, Rev. A. L. T. Ewert. Friends desiring to view the remains are requested to call at the residence of Dr. J. W. Hargrove before that hour.

ENTERTAINED FRIENDS.
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Woods entertained about thirty of their friends at their home on South Prairie street Friday. The evening was pleasantly spent at croquet and cards. Light refreshments were served.

Dublins vs. Pekin at West Side Park Sunday at 3 p. m.

W. C. T. U. NOTICE.
The ladies of the W. C. T. U. are requested to meet at the home of E. P. Jones on South Main street this afternoon to attend the funeral of Mrs. Jones. They will not meet and march to the house in a body, but will meet at the residence and form a body there. Each lady is also requested to wear a button hole bouquet tied with white ribbon.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

Secretary W. L. Pillsbury, of the University of Illinois, has recently issued a leaflet explaining the free scholarships offered in the college of agriculture and household science school. There is one for each college from each county, the Illinois Farmers' institute in the one case and the county Domestic Science association in the other case to recommend the applicants. Candidates who have a good high school education or its equivalent are eligible to appointment as special students at 16 years of age. Young men who cannot meet these requirements are eligible to appointment as special students at 16 years of age, provided that all so admitted must take half their studies in the preparatory school until they have either reached the age of 18 or have fully satisfied the entrance requirements. Young women to be eligible as candidates for admission as special students in household science must be 18 years of age. All assignments made in the college of agriculture shall be without tuition or fee of any kind except laboratory fees in certain subjects, and that assignments in the preparatory school shall be with a fee of $2 per subject per semester. These scholarships are good for two years and in case the holder shall meet the entrance requirements within the two years the benefits of the scholarship will be extended four years further.

BUY GRAIN AT NAPLES.

Dow & King, the Pittsfield millers, have leased the Einstman grain elevator at Naples and will buy grain at that point. Will and John Pine will represent them. Smith Hippen Co., grain firm at Pekin, have also established an agency there with Walter Hamey in charge. Naples is now well fixed with grain firms, and the farmers in that section will find a good market for their grain.

The Family.
Railway officials differ in the degree of liberality with which they define the word "family" when used on a pass. An American copied the instructions of the Paris-Lyon-Mediterranean railway bearing upon the subject as a lesson in liberality. On that road a pass for one and family is good for father, mother, children, grandchild, grandmother, mother-in-law, sister-in-law, brother-in-law, brother, sister, and servants attached to the family.

Only one way.
Lady—How could you be so foolish as to get married to that man? Girl—That's the only way to get married.
